'round town

with Betty Allen...

Monday was a red letter day here and many were the exclamations as residents watched Leonard Adams, the new postman, delivering mail for the first time in Campbell. Adams says most people seemed amazed when he appeared. Apparently they hadn't really believed it! His route covers about ten miles but he figures he has walked 13 by the time the day is over.

Adams is a friendly man with a real desire to please. Says the only complaint so far is from an invalid who would like rural delivery so he can purchase stamps at home. He has had little trouble with dogs so far, but, being an experienced postman, knows that the worst can happen any time.

The one thing he would like to stress, he says, is the necessity for using the correct house number and notifying correspondents of the change. Says it will not only help him, but will insure quicker delivery.

Right now he's looking for a house in Campbell for himself and his family which consists of his wife and two sons, one in Junior College in San Mateo and the other in grammar school. There are also two married daughters, one of whom is leaving soon for Yokohama.

Starting with this week's issue, the paper will carry a chapter a week of a new history of Campbell to be published in book form at a later date. Written by the town's distinguished citizen, T. A. Cutting, the history will cover all phases of Campbell's past from the days before the arrival of mankind up to the present.

Mr. Cutting is well qualified to write this book, not only because he has spent most of his life here, but because he has made the town's history a hobby and is recognized as Campbell's unofficial historian.

Evidences of his wide interests appear in his work and add to its scope. A retired mathematics and sciece teacher, he is also well-known as an inventor and writer. Among his inventions is the spectrocope used in the study of ores and among his published works are many technical books. At the present time the Chemical Publishing Co. is printing a book of his on the subject of electricity.

In preparing this comprehensive history Mr. Cutting has done extensive research at the Bancroft Library in Berkeley, the Stanford Library and the University of California Library.

Kiwanis Club Schedules Special Music Program

Next Tuesday afternoon the Kiwanis club is inviting the public to attend a specially arranged musical program in observance of National Music Week. The program, to follow the regular luncheon, will be held in the Methodist church and will begin promptly at 12:45 o'clock.

On the program will be Mrs. Beryl Mead, outstanding San Jose organist, who will play the newly installed organ in the church; the Campbell Union High school a cappella chir, and Frank Triena, concert master of the San Jose symphony, who will play the violin.

C. P. Klassen will be chairman of the day.

Members of the Campbell Union High School choir who will participate in the annual Spring Concert tomorrow evening in the High School auditorium.

Coach Herb Hudson Resigns

Herb Hudson, athletic director at Campbell Union High school, has resigned his position to accept a coaching job at Sequoia High school in Redwood City and will begin his new duties in the fall.

Coach Herb Hudson

He was selected from more than 50 applicants for the position which is considered highly desirable because of the high school's athletic reputation. With more than 33 planned activities in the athletic field, the school is ranked as one of the best in the state.

His new duties will include coaching in football, wrestling and baseball.

This is not the only excitement in the Hudson family for on Monday they welcomed the arrival of a baby daughter who has been named Jean Louise. They have another daughter, Doris, who is nine.

Hudson was a star athlete at San Jose State and came to Campbell High in 1939, where he has handled all sports.

During the war he spent three years in the Navy, serving as a lieutenant in the well-known Tom Hamilton physical training program for the aviation branch of the Navy. He is now a member of the V5 Instructors 'Association.

Laurance Hill, principal, says that several applications have been made for Hudson's vacated position but that no decision has been reached as to the selection of his successor.

Campbell Boy Is Acquitted By Jury

Raymond Carl McVea, 19-year-old Campbell Union High school student, was acquitted last week of a charge of manslaughter with gross negligence. A jury of seven men and five women in Judge William F. James' court deliberated for 50 minutes before coming to a decision.

Acused of striking down and killing Maurice P. O'Neill, 67, with his automobile at N. First and Clayton streets in San Jose last November 10, McVea testified that the accident was unavoidable since McNeill stepped off the curb into the path of his car and another car.

Defense attorney was Elmer D. Jensen of San Jose.

Local Man Faces Federal Charge

After putting up farm implements and horses as security for a Federal Farm loan, George Pia, 35, a Campbell rancher, is charged with selling these items. A federal bench warrant was issued for him in San Francisco on Monday after an information was filed

Also started was a civil action suit by the government to recover the $960 due on the loan and to recover the horses and implements from the purchasers.

This is not the first time that Pia has tangled with the law for he was just recently released from the county jail after serving a six months term for drunken driving, his fourth conviction for the same offense since 1935.

Cadet Corps Has First Review

Last Friday morning townspeople were given a good look at the new Campbell High School Cadet Corps when the first ceremonial review was held on the High School field. During the review the Corps was presented with a famous flag which was captured by the Germans in Belgium during the last war and later recaptured by the American soldiers.

The Campbell High School Band, under the leadership of Frank Triena and dressed in cadet uniforms, played for the snappy and well-executed drill.

Several prominent Army officers were present for the occasion. Included were: Federal Inspecting Officer, Maj. C. O. Nichols; Maj. Harold Hjelm, representative of the Adjutant General's office; Col. Allen Fletcher, School Commandant of the San Jose High school Cadet Corps and Col. Elmer Jensen and Capt. Larry Gott, visiting officers.

At present, School Commandant Lt. Col. Warren Sheldon has 75 boys in the Cadet Corps. The following boys now hold ranks: Herbert Bonds, captain of Company A; Angelo Aspesi and Ernest Wilson, second lieutenants; Vernon Farris, first sergeant; Harold Ely, staff sergeant; Roy Wingartner and Duane Malone, sergeants, and Edward Pearson, Daniel Gashler, Frank Ybarra, and Wayne Moles, corporals.

Donald Black is Company B's captain; lieutenants are Charles Rizzuto and Warren Whitmore; first sergant, Sherwood Rodgers; staff sergeant, Jolly Jones; sergeants, Robert Williamson and Bruce Robbit; and corporals, Robert Thompson, Samuel Williams, and Nickols Radolovich.

Work Starts On New Tunnels

Beginning with the laying of tile, construction on the Campbell Cooperative Dryer's 12 new tunnels has begun. To be erected at the end of First street, the new tunnels will increase the annual output from 3000 to 3500 tons.

In spite of delays in securing necessary materials and equipment, G. K. Schrader, manager, says that the tunnels will be finished in time for the beginning of the season which is usually the first week in August.

Lug boxes are being replaced by ton and a quarter portable bins which have to be moved by lift trucks. Three new ones have been purchased making a total of eight for the plant.

When the 12 new tunnels are completed the world's largest dehydrator will have a total of 48.

Hospital Drive Of Concern To Entire Valley

Seventy-six Campbell babies have been born in Community Service Hospital (formerly San Jose Hospital) during the last year, including nine in the last thirty days, a check of hospital records showed today.

Seventy-one residents of Campbell chose Community Service Hospital as a place to undergo surgery in the last twelve months, fifteen of them in the last month, and fifteen were rushed to the same hospital for emergency treatments, three of them during April.

In all, 227 Campbell residents were patients at Community Service Hospital during the year just ended, and a check of hospital records shows that the number is increasing steadily, as figures for the calendar year of 1946 included only 164 Campbell residents as patients.

The 227 patients Campbell sent to Community Service Hospital during the last year puts this city fourth in number of patients among the 25 communities outside San Jose which the hospital serves. Only cities outside San Jose which sent more patients to the hospital during the last year were Santa Clara, Los Gatos and Sunnyvale.

With this stake in the hospital, Campbell residents are organizing under the chairmanship of Rice to aid in the million-dollar expansion program for the hospital.

Community Service Hospital now is so overcrowded that the situation presents a crisis for the entire valley. One hundred-fifty beds have been crowded into space designed for 111 and all hospital facilities are carrying a heavy overload. Despite this, no surgery, major or minor, can be accepted before the second week in June unless it is an emergency, and the tonsillectomy schedule is filled until August 5.

In addition, many medical cases which the doctors would like to hospitalize must be taken care of in the patients' own homes.

The million-dollar expansion program calls for building a new wing with at least 100 beds and the surgeries, laboratories, diagnosis and treatment rooms necessary. An additional story also will be built on top of the present hospital wings, and the Nurses' Residence will be enlarged to accommodate twice its present enrollment of student nurses.

Community Service Hospital is the only hospital in Santa Clara Valley owned and operated by the citizens of the valley. It is non-profit and non-sectarian, serving Catholic, Jew and Protestant alike.

The general campaign to raise $1,000,000 for hospital expansion is scheduled to kick off in mid-May, and valley communities are organizing, each under its own chairman, to aid the campaign in its own way.

Rice will call a meeting of Campbell residents soon to plan Campbell's participation in the campaign.

General executive campaign chairman is James T. Rye of San Jose and A. R. Bower is general chairman for valley communities.

Students Get High Rating In Festival

The Campbell Union High school choir received an excellent rating in the State Choir Festival held in Stockton last Saturday. More than 5000 students from all over California participated in the annual event which is sponsored by the California School Band, Orchestra and Choral Association.

Accompanied by their director, Frank Trienna, the group from Campbell made the trip by bus.

Judges in the contest were Russell Bedley of the College of the Pacific, Dr. Roy Freeburg of San Francisco State College and Mrs. Edna Barr Love of the Modesto Junior College.

League Completes Second Round

The Junior hardball league completed second round games last Saturday at the high school field. Individual honors went mostly to the pitchers and catchers as the fielding proved rather ragged.

The battery of Calabre and Takata proved very effective against Jones Service as the Cambrian Hardware turned in a steady agme to down the Jonesmen 8-1. Yamashita and McBain, battery for the losers, turned in a good game but lacked support.

Campbell Taxi continued to win by snowing Hodges and Folden 16 to 1. Charlie Gibbins on the mound and diminutive Elmer Lane on second turned in stellar ball for the Taximen. Harold Shumawy showed class in holding down left field in great style for Hodges and Folden.

In the best battle of the day, Standish and Gilpatrick shaded Farley Real Estate 10-9. Hirosi, Farley pitcher, started raggedly, but after walking in several runs and throwing some wild balls, he settled down to a duel with Jerry Foresee. The last inning saw the score tied, but the winners took advantage of another wild pitch and sent home the winning run.

Midget League games saw the Lions forfeit to the Wildcats, Leopards swamp the Tigers 19-16, and

New Self-Service Laundry Open

Now open for business is the new Campbell Self-Service Laundry located on Railroad and Central Avenues.

Owners of the new plant are L. L. Foudray and B. Little. Both of the partners were formerly in the filling station business, Little having been a former oc-operator of the Richfield Service Station on Winchester Road, while Foudray at one time operated the Union Station, now a Shell station.

The two men built their building themselves and installed the ten washing machines which make up the present equipment together with the laundry trays.

Housewives without washing machines may take their laundry there and use the machines. If milady is too busy to do it herself, Foudray or Little will do it for her.

CHAMBER NOT EXCLUSIVE

The Chamber of Commerce officers say that some people seem to think the Chamber is for business men only. On the contrary, every person is urged to join and become a part of this organization which is endeavoring to be effective in securing community improvements. Everyone interested will be heartily welcomed at the luncheon meetings held on the third Wednesday of each month at 1 o'clock in the Library building.

HISTORY OF CAMPBELL

By T. A. CUTTING

1. GEOLOGY OF THE CAMPBELL AREA

The town of Campbell is located in Santa Clara County, California, fifty miles southeast of San Francisco and five miles southwest of San Jose. It lies in the heart of the Santa Clara Valley between the Mt. Hamilton Range on the east and the Santa Cruz Mountains on the west, both of the Coast Range.

The age of the earth, according to recent estimates based upon the known rate of disintegration of radioactive minerals, is about a billion and a half years—much greater than was formerly supposed. Probably the land has never at any one time been entirely covered with water, but all the available evidence indicates that "in the beginning" both the Sierra Nevadas and the Coast Range were covered by the sea.

The geologic record of this region is incomplete since rocks older than about 300 million years are missing. In Paleozoic times, however, the floor of the sea at the site of Ben Lomond was covered with layers of shale and limestone. Then, according to Dr. Branner, first head of the geology department at Stanford University, a great mass of molten granite-like rock pushed up into the ocean floor. The tremendous heat changed the shale into shining mica schist and the limestone into crystalline marble. These formations may be seen to this day in the vicinities of Felton, Santa Cruz and Davenport.

Next came the uplift, for the surface of the earth, stable as it seems, is never quite at rest, but is always rising or sinking, moving this way or that. The movements are usually so slow as to be imperceptable; but an inch a year for only a million years would make a shift of ten miles. This uplift raised the head of Ben Lomond above the level of the sea. As he looked about he saw only a few scattered islands, one near Half Moon Bay, others near Pacific Grove and Salinas. Mt. Hamilton was still beneath the level of the sea, and so he could look clear across to the great granite mass of the Sierras, also just emerging from the deep and extending as far to the north and the south as he could see.

During the next few million years, most of the schist and limestone were worn away and washed down again into the sea. As a result of this erosion, extensive areas of the granite base were exposed and may be traced today all the way from Ben Lomond and Felton to Santa Cruz along the highway.

Then comes a hiatus of millions of years during which the record was destroyed by erosion. The late tertiary rocks are found lying directly upon the old Paleozoic shoulders of the mountain, giving no indication of what happened in the intervening years.

Geologists classify rocks according to their age, the oldest, of course, are normally found at the bottom and the more recently formed layers on top. The following table gives the main divisions:

1. Cenozoic
   - Quaternary:
     - Recent
     - Pleistocene
   - Tertiary:
     - Pliocene
     - Miocene
     - Oligocene
     - Eocene
2. Mesozoic
   - Cretaceous
   - Jurassic
   - Triassic
3. Paleozoic
   - Carboniferous
   - Devonian
   - Silurian
   - Ordovincian
   - Cambrian
4. Pre-Cambrian
   - Keweenawan
   - Huronian
   - Timiskaming
   - Keewatin

While Ben Lomond slept through the early Mesozoic age, there were plenty of happenings in the region to the east all the way from San Francisco to Almaden. There were earthquakes, volcanoes and the crumpling and crushing of the rock strata in confusing succession. Jaspers, chert and limestone were formed in rather deep water, and in-

Campbell Court Notes

By Judge Blaine

Collections for Campbell Justice Court for April totaled $209. This amount compares with $53.50 for April last year. Total for 1947 thus far is $755, which compares with $276.50 for last year to the same date.

How shall we explain the difference?

The increase is mostly in motor vehicle fines; and these of course mean more arrests. And more arrests mean more activity on the part of the Highway Patrol.

For example, 30 fines of $2 each were collected in April for "no arterial stop" arrests at an intersection never watched systematically before. Precisely why the Patrol concentrated on this intersection is for the officers to say.

This is the corner, by the way, which had to do with the argument reported last week; and since then the corner produced another argument — over the telephone, of all places, in these strike times.

The defendant called up and said "Judge, I think there were extenuating circumstances. My wife and I had a sick baby, and we were hurrying home and not thinking about that stop sign."

"If you had all been in the car when it was hit by a truck, and you had all been killed, the extenuating circumstances would of course have brought you all to life again."

"Judge, your comment is a little heartless, it seems to me."

"So are traffic accidents, completely heartless—it seems to most people involved in them. Besides, who is to have a heart, the judge who warns people against careless driving or the parent who thoughtlessly risks lives in his own family?"

And thus, for several minutes, getting nowhere fast. "A man convinced against his will is of the same opinion still"—still! And as work mounts in court, judges become more and more crabby, still.

Contending For The Faith

We read in Jude, verse 3: "Beloved, when I gave all dilligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints." Here we have definite instruction to contend for the faith and to do so in earnestness. In Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, fifth edition, pub. in 1938, by G. & C. Merriam Co., we have the word "contend" defined as used in Jude, verse 3. It means: "To strive in opposition or rivalry; to compete; vie." So to contend for the faith is to strive in opposition or rivalry against that which opposes the faith. Now the question is: "What is the faith?" It is that which Paul preached, Galatians 1:23, and he was a minister of the New Testament, 2 Corinthians 3:6, so the New Testament is the faith. Of course, what Paul preached was the same as what the other apostles preached, as is seen in Galatians 2:1-10 .

Now here is the summary of all that is written in this article: Christians are exhorted to oppose all teaching that is contrary to what is taught in the New Testament and to do so in all earnestness. Some may call it quarreling, but it should be done nevertheless. Of course the truth should be spoken in love, Ephesians 4:15, and is the opposite of hate and bitterness. The true gospel preacher will make sure that it is the New Testament he is preaching and then in love contend for it by opposing all that is contrary to it, as occasion demands.

trusive peridotites were being altered into serpentine. These violent disturbances continued for some 50 million years during the Jurassic period over 100 million years ago.

Cretaceous times followed in which the jaspers and volcanic rocks of the previous period were broken up and washed down toward the sea from a chain of islands which in that era represented the Coast Range and lay parallel to the Sierra Nevada. This period closed with a subsidence which inundated the gravels and covered them with layers of sand and clay.

The rock strata of the succeeding Tertiary period do not lie flat upon those of Cretaceous age but upon their upturned ends. Geologists interpret this as indicating an unrecorded interval of time during which the floor of the sound between the Sierras and the island chain was elevated above sea level, folded and worn down by erosion. This was followed by submergence and the deposit of layers of Tertiary rocks upon the upended Cretaceous strata. The layers of these Tertiary sandstones have a total thickness of about two and one half miles and so must have washed down from high mountains, which by this time probably formed a peninsula superseding the chain of islands. The great sandstone masses between Alma and Scott's Valley on the Santa Cruz highway were deposited at this time. This, of course, means that instead of being a mountain ridge it was then an ocean bottom along the coast. Layers of shale, sandstone and limestone were laid down smoothly one on top of the other for about 20 million years along this shore. Then subterranean forces of the late Miocene age lifted them partly out of water.

By this time—that is some 10 million years ago—the great San Andreas fault line, running southeast down the peninsula from San Francisco and passing close to Congress Springs on its way south, was already well defined. Slippages on this fault have probably been causing earthquakes in the area for the past 20 or 30 million years.

The old Mesozoic rocks east of the fault line were pushed up in Miocene times and the area to the west forced down for several thousand feet so as to be completely inundated. After this subsidence the great areas of white Monterey shale to be seen all along the coast from Santa Cruz to Pascadero were deposited in deep sea water. The fossil diatoms which these rocks contain show their origin.

In the same period there was a volcano near the present site of La Honda which was then a seashore instead of the mountain ridge of today. At the same time there was also a volcano in the foothills back of Stanford from which poured forth a sheet of lava which extended all the way to Menlo Heights and crossed a shallow sea which lay in its path. In places the lava was 400 feet thick. Later the craters sank beneath the sea and were covered with sediment containing marine shells. In the ensuing few million years the submerged area was lifted again, folded, faulted, and once more eroded.

In middle Miocene times the coast near Half Moon Bay slowly sank again, but the Santa Cruz mountains managed to keep their heads above water and have done so ever since. At about this time, or a little later, an arm of the bay extended in from the present position of the Salinas Valley as far north as Boulder Creek, and in it were laid down the sands which today form the white hills that look like sand dunes in Scott's Valley and about Mount Hermon and Boulder Creek.

Early in the following Pliocene period it is possible that the whole region about Ben Lomond was eroded down to a peneplain and later the great block tilted up by subterranean forces. At any rate, as one looks west from Loma Prieta today the picture is that of a remarkably flat surface which slopes gently toward the sea. Nearer at hand, of course, it is seen to be rough and deepiy eroded. The slippage, as the northeast edge of the block was elevated, was apparently along the San Andreas fault.

During Pliocene times there was some lifting of the Santa Clara Valley, and extensive fresh water lakes were formed. Dr. Branner and his associates even conjecture that the outlet to the sea may have been blocked and one great fresh water lake formed, fed by streams from the Sierras, and covering Santa Clara Valley. At any rate, fresh water fossils are found along the foothills of the Santa Cruz Mountains, and even over in San Benito County.

Finally we come down to the Quaternary period, covering the last million years or so of geologic time. A general subsidence is the first important event of this era, accompanied by the usual faulting and folding of the land. In places the land sank as much as 2000 feet below its present level. Ben Lomond, for instance, shows a wave-cut bench near the summit which proves that it was all but swallowed by the sea at this time.

Professor Buss of San Jose College used to take his geology classes to the top of Eagle Rock and point out the ancient peneplain and benches that indicate the alternate rising, falling and tilting of the land masses surrounding the peak.

As a result of this last subsidence Santa Clara Valley was again inundated with salt water. Then came a series of uplifts which raised the land in some places higher than it had been before. "It is certain," wrote Dr. Branner, "that faulting and perhaps folding are now going on in the Santa Cruz Range along some of the old lines of weakness, but it is not known whether the present movement is up or down."

Streams from the Santa Cruz mountains are filling the south arm of San Francisco Bay with silt and are building alluvial fans around the edge of the valley. These fresh water gravel deposits are sometimes 200 feet thick.

Logs of the three wells of the Campbell Water Company show alternating layers of gravel and clay to a depth of 438 feet. The strata vary in thickness from two or three to thirty feet. At the surface the gravel is loose, but at a depth of about 100 feet it often becomes cemented. Good water bearing gravel strata from ten to twenty feet thick occur at depths of about 150, 200 and 300 feet. These are underlain by beds of yellow clay.

Thus the beds of gravel and clay which underlie the fertile topsoil of Campbell were brought down from the Santa Cruz Mountains and deposited in alluvial fans over the valley. The streams by constantly changing their courses have spread the sands and silt back and forth so as to make a somewhat even valley floor.

According to Professor Buss, the alluvial deposits in some places are over 1000 feet deep with the coarser gravels near the foothills. The underground water enters these coarse deposits and percolates slowly down in the gravel strata between the layers of clay which are too impervious for the water to penetrate.

There is a theory that the tremendous weight of the gravel deposited upon the valley floor has caused the sinking of a great block of rock lying between the San Andreas fault on one side and the Hayward fault on the other. The rate of deposit has been just fast enough to compensate for the sinking, and so the valley floor has been prevented from being inundated by the waters of the bay. According to this theory the mountains on both sides of the valley are being pushed up by the lateral movement of a lower layer of plastic rock that is being pushed aside by the descent of the valley block.

Madrone Rodeo Plans Ready

Plans for the annual Madrone Rodeo, scheduled this year on Sunday, May 25, and sponsored once again by the Morgan Hill Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4112, are moving along at a fast pace, it was announced yesterday by General Chairman Buzz Edes.

An open show, approved by the R.C.A. (Rodeo Cowboys Association), this year's rodeo promises to be one of the best ever, which is something, for the Madrone Rodeo has annually been rated as the "biggest little rodeo in the country."

Actually, the Madrone Rodeo is anything but little as attested by the approximately $2500 in prize money being offered to winning cowboys. Last years' show drew a record number of entries and was witnessed by close to 3500 people.

Livestock for the event is being furnished by J. and A. Anderson of Chualar. Entries, which must be submitted to Pat Brady, Morgan Hill, must be turned in no later than p.m. Thursday, May 22, accompanied by full entry fee and blank.

Arena events include calf roping, bull riding, bareback riding, single and team steer stopping, and listed track events are: best cowhorse, advanced hackamore, green hackamore, best junior cow girl and cowhorse, best junior cowboy and cowhorse, novice stock horse and cow on halter.

Preceding the rodeo will be the annual cowboy dance at Friendly Inn in Morgan Hill. Furnishing the music for the affair, to which the public is invited, will be Elwood Hart and his orchestra. Bids to the dance may be secured from any member of Post 4112.

GIRLS TUMBLE ON PUBLIC SCHOOL NIGHT

H. S. Students Entertain Parents

A skillful tumbling act was a feature of the program presented by Campbell Union High School students for their parents on Public School night last Thursday. Trained by Mrs. Louise Tordt, physical education instructor, the girls demonstrated their agility in a fast moving "act" which brought rounds of applause.

High School Gets Dual Control Car

Campbell Union High School is the first school in the county to receive a dual control car for use in driver education classes, according to Laurance Hill, principal, who anounced that the car, a Fontiac, would be received in time for use in September.

Hill has been working in conjunction with the California Automobile Association to secure the allotment of the car from the American Automobile Association and the Pontiac company. Only a few schools in California are privileged to have these cars.

Equipped with an extra brake and clutch, the dual control car enables the instructor to teach students in perfect safety.

The course presented at the local school in traffic safety is compulsary for all sophomores. Those desiring to have instruction in the new car may do so with the written permission of their parents.

Instructor in the course is Millard Hughes who says that the car will undoubtedly be used on a street designated by the highway patrol for such use.

The American Cancer Society's fund-raising campaign will continue its drive into May. The County quota of $20,000 has not been reached. To date 60 percent has been collected.

Letters of appeal have been sent out to the towns in the county. Response from the people is earnestly needed to help in this needy work. Projects supported by this drive must continue in order to better our health problem in our county, according to Mr. Raymond T. Wayland, director.

Time For Home Egg Storage

A scarcity of eggs for fall is the prediction of the men who know. Now while eggs are abundant is the time to make preparation for storing eggs. Eggs may be preserved either by freezing storage or by putting them in water glass. Directions for the latter follow:

Use clean fresh eggs. If the egg is soiled do not wash it as washing may carry some of the dirt through the pores of the shell and thus foster spoilage.

Eggs should be infertile. The only way to be sure of this is to separate the roosters from the flock for two weeks prior to the time eggs are put down. If fertile eggs are put down in water glass there is a tendency for the germ to grow and then to be killed when the temperature drops. This results in eggs with an off flavor.

Prepare the water glass solution according to the directions on the jar. Be sure to use freshly boiled water which has been cooled. Place the eggs in a crock with the small end down and pour the solution over them. The solution should cover the eggs. Cover the crock to prevent evaporation and store the crock in a cool place.

In Santa Clara county, a well-ventilated basement or a cool dark cupboard would be ideal. One-story garages are apt to get very hot in the summer and for this reason would not be suitable for egg storage. If there is no basement nor any suitable cool storage place, then dig a hole in the ground in a shady place and sink the crock in that.

In using water glass eggs, remember to prick the shell before boiling the egg. The water glass solution seals the pores and the egg may burst if it is not pricked.

Guest Day Is Pleasant Affair

Mrs. Ray Stoner, chairman of the day, and her co-hostesses planned a delightful Guest Day program and tea at the Country Woman's Club of Campbell on May 5. Delicate shades of spring flowers decorated the club room.

Mrs. Norman Pratt reviewed the book, "Where the Sabina Sings," by Henriquetta Chamberlain, an autobiography of the author's life in Brazil.

Oco-wa-sin Round-Up

The Birthday Project is completed and about 15 girls will receive the Birthday Project Emblem in recognition of their efforts at the Council Fire to be held in the Redwoods on May 17.

One requirement of the project was that favors, gifts and books be made by the girls and presented to a hospital or children's ward.

Oco-wa-sin chose to make this presentation on May Day when a box was delivered by their leader, Mrs. Henley, containing cork doll favors, vases, scrapbooks, paste, old Christmas cards, fresh cut flowers, a potted plane and two May baskets to the Santa Clara County Hospital school rooms, supervised by Mrs. C. Burns.

Every effort is being made by 20 girls to pass their rank when the board of review visits with them on May 23.

Having fulfilled the birthday and other requirements, it leaves, in most cases, just the overnight trip which is planned for May 16 at Miss Dorothy and Miss Gladys Merriam's "Cabin in the Sky" at Ben Lomond.

Anyone having fat donations for the group may call Campbell 3416.

Ice Follies Are Scheduled In June

Completing another successful tour of the nation's metropolitan cities, the Shipstads and Johnson Ice Follies of 1947 will return to San Francisco's Winterland, June 11 for its 11th annual summer engagement.

In announcing the opening, Geo. Campbell, general manager of the Winterland, said that out-of-town customers will be given equal opportunity of securing choice seats by launching the mail-order reservation program a full week before actual opening of the San Francisco boxoffices. Mail order reservations will be accepted starting on May 5.

The advance mail-order campaign, Campbell said, will give out-of-town patrons a greater opportunity to secure tickets for the nights most convenient to them.

Hailed by eastern critics as "bigger and more beautiful than ever before," Ice Follies of 1947 will again present 10 lavish production numbers, including a new version of the popular "Swing Waltz," in addition to more than a score of outstanding solo presentations.

For the convenience of those ordering by mail, ticket prices are $1.20, $1.80, $2.40, $3 and $3.60, including federal tax. Checks or money orders, with self-addressed envelopes, should be addressed to Winterland, San Francisco, designating number of seats, prices and dates desired.

VAGRANT ROAD

There's a vagrant road a-calling,
As it wanders past my gate,
Motioning me to follow after,
And hold rendezvous with fate.

All its ruts are filled with grasses,
Sweet wild roses grow beside,
Wandering ever onward, upward,
Climbing towards the great divide.

Sweet unto my ears the message,
Tempting as the Lorelei song,
And my footsteps fain would follow.
Sure, such beauty can't be wrong.

So I ope my gate, and go forth,
Hearing bird song by the way,
The road is calling, calling, calling,
All the golden summer day.

As I go where my road leads me,
Peace comes stealing o'er my heart,
And I know that we are kindred,
The road and I must never part!

Clara Beebe Baldwin.

Salinas Planning Rodeo In June

Arena winners will split between 340,000 and $50,000 cash at the revived California Rodeo at Salinas, June 19-22. These purses, which include added entrance fees, are the largest in history of any four-performance rodeo in the U.S.

Heretofore, the California Rodeo has been held in July. This year, however, to comply with California Centennial programs throughout the state, the dates were set ahead to June. It is the first rodeo to be held at Salinas since 1941 when, due to wartime conditions, the grounds were not available.

Entry fees close June 9, with the following full program of events to entice the world's most outstanding talent to arena and track: bronc riding, bull riding, bareback riding, calf roping team roping, steer wrestling, wild cow milking, wild horse race, pony express relay and quarter horse racing on a new straightaway track.

Several track features are brand new in the big four-day event which annually attracts from 1000 to 1500 horses and riders in the daily parade which starts at 1 p. m., proceeding through Main street to the grounds located a mile north of Salinas on 101 highway.

Stamp collectors who desire cachet covers which will commemorate the rodeo opening should send properly stamped and addressed envelopes to the Monterey Bay Philatelic Society, YMCA building, Salinas, so that they will arrive not later than June 17.

Assemblyman Robert C. Kirkwood States Views On Vivisection Bill

In view of the current controversy throughout the state concerning legislation to impose restrictions on use of dogs and cats in scientific experimentation, Assemblyman Robert C. Kirkwood, of Saratoga, has issued a statement, which follows:

"A hearing on Assembly Bill No. 2026, by Assemblyman Kilpatrick, was held before the Assembly Judiciary committee on Monday, April 21. This is the bill which seeks to impose various restrictions on the use of dogs and cats in scientific experimentation.

SCIENTISTS TESTIFY

"Representatives of all the leading medical schools of the state and of the Cutter Laboratory appeared before the committee. The testimony of these men, and I believe that their integrity cannot be assailed, was to the effect that experimentation on cats and dogs is absolutely essential to the progress of medical science. They stated that in many tests other animals cannot be substituted satisfactorily for the reason that the reactions of dogs and cats in certain instances are much closer to the eractions of human beings than raections found in any other animals. They testified that less than 5 percent of tests made on animals are made on cats and dogs and indicated that the pressure of humane societies on the medical schools and laboratories keeps such tests to the bare minimum. I think that the need for the use of cats and dogs in medical experiments was irrefutably established.

"I feel that in view of this need and in view of the integrity of the people of this state who now conduct scientific experiments that it is not wise to impose unnecessary restrictions on their use of animals. In the light of this conclusion I would say that many of the provisions of A.B.2026 go too far.

LITTLE EVIDENCE

"There was little, if any, concrete evidence before the committee in support of the idea that household pets are used in scientific experiments. It is true that there was no clear evidence that household pets might not occasionally meet this fate, but the lack of evidence to support the contention that household pets are used would indicate that the occasion is rare. The bill, to my way of thinking, imposes far too drastic restrictions to meet what appears to be a very rare occurence. I would support any measure which had as its sole purpose the protection of our pets. This bill goes far beyond that.

"It is, of course, already a crime to steal a dog. It is the enforcement of the law which breaks down. I would say that it would be perfectly sound to require experimenters to purchase their dogs and cats from licensed suppliers. I would think, too, it would be proper to require these licensed suppliers to keep some form of record as to the source from which they have obtained the animals. I don't think we need to go as far as to require that the supplier himself raise the dogs and cats.

"I doubt if it would be necessary to go beyond these two provisions in order to fully protect household pets. If well documented evidence could be produced to show the necessity for going beyond these provisions, then something more might be done. However, it is, I am sure, useless to introduce bills the provisions of which cannot clearly be shown to be required."

Dear Editor:

Moreland Notes

by Elaine Smith

Not to be outdone by other schools, Moreland played host to visiting parents and friends during the past week.

All classes were open to the public and school patrons were urged to familiarize themselves with the school program.

A special education week program was given on Friday afternoon, consisting of numbers from grades 3 to 8.

Grades 4 and 8 presented a short play which was worked out in the English class. Miss Castro's class, 2nd grade, gave recitations and Mrs. Montmorency's 3rd and 4th graders put on a very clever radio skit.

The school orchestra, under the leadership of Mrs. Baker, played three selections.

Many parents took the opportunity of visiting the school during the day.

Some very good work turned out by the wood-working class and the home-arts class was an exhibit during Public School Week.

The new school building is taking shape rapidly now.

The cement has been poured and workmen are now busily engaged in putting up the framework for the walls.

Unsung Heroes of Any School

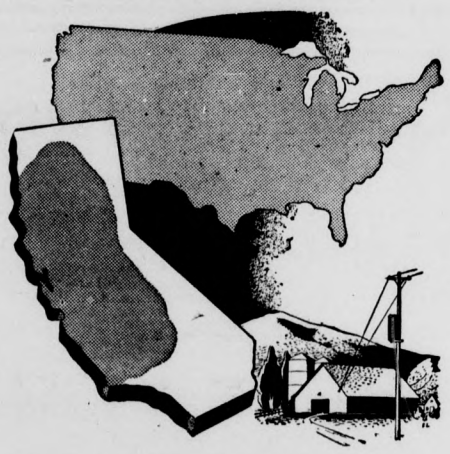
The Janitor, the Bus Driver, the principal, and last but not least the pupil who attends classes regularly prepared day after day all through the year.

One ought to say a good word for the parents, too, so to all parents, here is a big "Thank You" for everything you do day after day.

Parents Attend Ceremony

One hundred parents and friends attended the impressive Council Fire held last week by the Odakonya Camp Fire group in the sanctuary of the Congregational church. The girls, under the leadership of Mrs. D. W. Ribble, received their first rank of Trailseeker. Trailseeker charms were gifts from the mothers and were presented to the girls by Mrs. Leslie Titus. The ceremonial meeting was followed by refreshments.

FARM POWER IS CHEAP in NORTHERN and CENTRAL CALIFORNIA



The electric power bills paid by farmers of Northern and Central California are among the lowest in the nation. Latest rural electrification statistics show the following comparison in average cost per kilowatt-hour for rural power service:

	Average Cost per Kwhr
R. E. A. Cooperatives (SOURCE: Official report of the Administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration 1946.)	3.67 cents
All other utilities (National Average) (SOURCE: Edison Electric Institute.)	2.37 cents
P. G. and E.	1.68 cents

The widespread use of cheap electric power has contributed much to the national leadership now held by California agriculture in crop diversity and production. Electric-powered pumps irrigate the lands to bring higher yields and crop frequency. Electric-driven mechanical helpers offer the farmer speed and economy in performing his farm chores. And in the farm home, electric appliances provide all the conveniences and comfort of urban living.

Church To Have Speaker May 14

Members of the Campbell Assemblies of God church are anticipating an interesting evening next Wednesday, May 14, when the Rev.

REV. ROBERT F. FIERRO

Robert F. Fierro, field representative for the Latin American Orphanage and Broadcasting Corporation, will speak.

A native American of Mexican parentage, the Rev. Fierro is an ordained minister and evangelist who has preached in many parts of the United States, Mexico, Central America, Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic and Cuba.

For two years he served as visiting chaplain to the Spanish speaking inmates of San Quentin penitentiary.

Recently he returned from Mexico where, near the city of Acapulco, he was given 550 acres of land upon which to establish his organization's proposed school and orphanage.

The service at which he will speak begins at 7:30 p.m.

AUXILIARY MEETING SCHEDULED

The next regular meeting of the Campbell American Legion Auxiliary is scheduled for Wednesday, May 14 when a class of new members will be initiated in new candlelight ceremony. Officers are asked to dress formally for the occasion.

Also at this meeting a nominating committee will be appointed.

Campbell Man Now In Omiya

Pfc. Charles F. Livingston of Campbell is serving with the famed Fighting First Cavalry division, which is on occupation duty in the ten prefectures of the Tokyo-Yokohama area. The First Cavalry Division fought all the way from Australia in the Pacific campaign of World War II and was first in Manila and first in Tokyo.

Overseas since Decemebr 10, 1946, Pfc. Livingston is assigned to "C" Troop of the distinguished Eighth Cavalry Regiment in the capacity of a squad leader in a rifle platoon. Charles, who enlisted in the Army on Sept. 17, 1946, received his basic training at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

A graduate of Campbell Union High school, he was employed as an automobile mechanic at Wirths Garage prior to entering the service. After his discharge he plans to attend college under the G.I. Bill of Rights.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Livingston, Sr., reside at 346 No. Harrison.

Campbell Girl Gets Highest Rating At Stockton

Miss Katharine Fuller played a flute solo at the Music Festival of Northern California held at Stockton Saturday, May 3, and received a rating of I-plus, the highest possible rating, from the judges and was the only soloist to represent Campbell High school where she is a student in the junior class. Her accompanist was Mrs. David Sanders of Campbell, well known in this vicinity.

Miss Fuller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex K. Fuller of Campbell, who with Mrs. Sanders, accompanied her to Stockton. She is a flute student of George V. Currlin of Santa Clara.

Workers Plan Poppy Day

Children unborn when the World War battles were fought will be aided by the poppies which honor the World War dead, Mrs. Clara Fagalde, child welfare chairman of Campbell unit at the American Legion Auxiliary, told a meeting of Poppy Day volunteers. Much of the Auxiliary's work for the welfare of veterans' children is financed by Poppy Day contributions, she stated.

"Children whose fathers have died or become disabled as a result of war service are increasing in numbers and many of them are needing help," Mrs. Fagalde said. "The work which the Auxiliary always has carried out for the welfare of veterans' children must be greatly expanded to meet their needs. We look to the poppy for the funds we must have to finance this work.

"The auxiliary's child welfare workers, of course, are all volunteers so that every dollar we receive goes to the needy children. The experience our women gained in their years of effort for the children of World War I veterans is now proving of great value in the work for those of World War II veterans. They are able to make poppy contributions go a long way in relieving suffering and hardship among veterans' families.

"The money which the people of Campbell contribute for their poppies on Saturday will remain largely in this community to meet local needs in the year ahead. It will be divided between the rehabilitation and child welfare funds, part going for emergency relief of the disabled veterans themselves, and part for children of veterans. When we honor the war dead by wearing a memorial poppy, we also aid their comrades who are disabled and the children left without a father's support by the war."

California mines in 1946 produced 20,130,000 pounds of lead worth $2,033,130.
